WHAT CAN I LEARN?

The student will be able to expose himself/herself on the complexities of nature and life while applying the importance of syllable stress during class discussions. Speaking activities and listening passages will help the student develop his/her word building tools as he/she collaborates with the others on an academic presentation as well. This will also gauge the student's level of understanding as he/she presents a documentary proposal using everyday language such as repetitions, context clues, and even adjective clauses. Lastly, providing articles that are related to the topic will fully develop the student's speech and vocabulary bank.
